

OF OBSTRUCTION

ABSTRACT:

Obstruction is omnipresent. Someone faces hard copy of obstruction. Someone faces soft copy of obstruction. The second person is romantic in nature. The critic contends that romanticism is a disease. However, in reality, he who can remove obstruction prospers in life. He who cannot dies. Now, whenever a person tries to do something there are two possibilities. Either he may fail or he may fail to fail. A person without being afraid of obstruction of any kind i.e., either real or imaginary, should simply try for the latter one.

INTRODUCTION

Creative writing is based more on manifestation rather than on expression. It does not inform rather reveals, so this style of writing bears no reference. The best creative writing is critical, and the best critical writing is creative. The present article is the outcome of creative writing meant for lay readers. As such free style is the methodology adopted so that pleasure of reading can be enjoyed by the readers in general. As you may know Francis Bacon (1561-1626), the immortal essayist, wrote many essays and notably, "Of Love", "Of Friendship", "Of Ambition", "Of Studies", etc. The myriad-minded genius rightly pointed out that all the words of the dictionary can be the themes of essays one can write. But little has been done, in this regard since his death, in order to finish his unfinished monumental works. In fact Bacon's way of presentation i.e., his unique style kindled the imagination already in me and encouraged me as well to write essays, in the light of creative writing, thus to get relief through Catharsis.

ARTICLE

Obstruct is to be or get in the way of somebody or something. It is to block something. It is to prevent somebody or something deliberately from making progress. It is to put difficulties in the way of somebody or something e.g. be charged with obstructing the police in the course of their duty; obstruct a player on the football field; obstruct the passage of a bill through Congress i.e. try to prevent a law being passed.

Obstruction is the action of obstructing somebody or something e.g. obstruction of the factory gates; be arrested for obstruction. It is a thing that obstructs somebody or something e.g. an operation to remove an obstruction in the throat; an obstruction in the intestine; obstructions on the road e.g. fallen trees. In sports it is the offence of unfairly preventing the movement of a player in the other team e.g. be penalized for obstruction.

Obstruction is obstacle or hindrance e.g. obstructions to navigation. It is the deliberate delaying or preventing of business before a legislative body, as by parliamentary contrivances. It is opposition by dilatory tactics, as in a legislative assembly. It is the state of being obstructed. It is hindrance. It is that which hinders progress or action.

Obstruction is the act or an instance of blocking or being blocked, making or becoming more or less impassable. It is as illegal act in some games. In sport it is act of unlawfully obstructing another player. It is an obstacle or blockage. In pathology, it is blockage in bodily passage, especially in intestine.

Barrier, bar, obstacle are synonyms of obstruction.

Obstructionism is deliberate obstruction of plans, laws, etc.

Obstructive is causing or producing an obstruction. For example: an obstructing lung disease; an agricultural policy obstructive to small farmers; a policy obstructive to employment expansion.

Obstructive implies hindering. It is a hindrance. It is, especially, deliberately hindering an activity or progress. It is an obstructive person or thing.

Obstructionist is anyone who obstructs progress. He is a politician who practices obstruction. It is, especially, a member of a legislative group who hinders the passage of legislation by various technical maneuvers.

Obstruent, as per medical science, is a substance producing an obstruction. In phonetics, it is having the properties of a speech sound in which the breath is wholly or partly obstructed, as a fricative, affricate, or occlusive. It is known as obstruent speech sound. It is a medicine that closes the natural passages of the body.

Obstruent, though rare, implies obstructing. It implies blocking up. It is anything that obstructs, especially, in the passages of the body. It is an astringent drug. It is, especially, blocking a passage of the body. It is something, as a kidney stone, that blocks a passage of the body.

Obstruction is omnipresent. Someone faces hard copy of obstruction. Someone faces soft copy of obstruction. The second person is romantic in nature. The critic contends that romanticism is a disease. However, in reality, he who can remove obstruction prospers in life. He who cannot dies. Now, whenever a person tries to do something there are two possibilities. Either he may fail or he may fail to fail. A person without being afraid of obstruction of any kind i.e., either real or imaginary, should simply try for the latter one.

Man obstructs. It is human nature. He considers it as a democratic right. As such he exercises it and enjoys sadistic pleasure. In reciprocation man is obstructed as well. This is just like paid by your own coin. Thus man, willy-nilly, experiences the episode of obstruction infinite times from cradle to coffin in its various forms and features having different degrees and dimensions with varied faces and facets as well.

Parked cars obstructed his view of the road. He was charged with obstructing the highway. Roads were obstructed by fallen trees. The mansion in front of our house obstructs the view of the lake beyond. There must be some obstruction in the water-pipe. Your car is causing an obstruction i.e. getting in the way of others. Her attitude was unhelpful and obstructive.

A superior obstructs. A mighty person obstructs. As such the rich obstructs. The poor faces obstruction. They are born to be tortured. This causes anger of the proletariat. They protest against the obstruction. In course of time this agitation turns into revolution that leads to salvation from tyranny.

A lazy person always sees obstruction. He always speaks for obstruction. Even he dreams obstruction. He manufactures obstruction with his immense and infinite laziness. He is very active to show lame excuse. He is really an artist. As such he does nothing. He cannot do anything. He cannot prosper in life. He is so cursed.

There are two types of persons. One likes to obstruct. The other likes to remove the obstruction. Both enjoy pleasure. The former one enjoys sadistic pleasure. The later one enjoys heavenly pleasure who is a Good Samaritan and benefactor of mankind. Both are diagonally opposite regarding their philosophy towards life.

Life is not a bed rose. As such the proverb goes look before you leap. He who does anything without any thinking faces various obstructions. A wise, whatever or whenever does anything, he does after meticulous thinking. He thinks the pros and cons of the work in detail. Then he proceeds. Naturally, he faces no obstruction. His journey is smooth. Even, if he faces any trouble, he can conquer it for having thorough knowledge of the concerned job.

In contrast, a fool does and practically rushes towards anything without any thinking. As a consequence it faces numerous problems to complete the task. In most of the cases it leaves the job unfinished. In fact, it has no perfect planning. Its thinking either is unplanned or ill-planned or both simultaneously. It plans, if it likes. It plans not, if it likes not. Thus its mood and motive are gloriously so uncertain.

CONCLUSION

Uncertainty seldom pays. A fool never takes advice from the learned. The fool thinks that it knows all and everything. The paradox is that it knows not that it knows not. This is its self-created unconquerable obstruction.
