

OF MANDATORY

DIBAKAR PAL ¹

¹ RETIRED EXECUTIVE MAGISTRATE (CIVIL SERVANT) & PHD STUDENT, DEPARTMENT OF BUSINESS MANAGEMENT, UNIVERSITY OF CALCUTTA, INDIA.

ABSTRACT:

Man moves on foot. Soldier moves on food. As such sufficient food is mandatory to keep good health for the soldiers thereby remain active round the clock. In contrast hero/heroine takes little food as mandatory diet thus to maintain glamour. Sometimes they even starve in the name dieting or so-called balanced diet. In the glamour world calorie burn is not possible for lacking in physical activity.

KEYWORDS:

MANDATORY, COMPULSORY, OBLIGATORY, NECESSARY, ESSENTIAL, BINDING.

INTRODUCTION

Creative writing is based more on manifestation rather than on expression. It does not inform, rather it reveals. So it bears no reference. The best creative writing is critical, and the best critical writing is creative. This article is an outcome of thinking about creative writing meant for a general readership. As such, I have adopted a free style methodology so that everyone can enjoy the pleasure of reading. As you might know, Francis Bacon (1561-1626), the immortal essayist, wrote many essays namely 'Of Love', 'Of Friendship', 'Of Ambition', 'Of Studies', and so on. The multiple-minded genius correctly pointed out that all the words of the dictionary can be used as themes for essays. But little has been done since his death to continue or finish his monumental task. Bacon's unique individual style of presentation ignited my imagination and encouraged me to write creative essays as a method of relieving a wide range of emotions through catharsis.

ARTICLE

Mandatory is made necessary, usually by law or by some other rule. For example: The test includes a mandatory essay question.

If an action or procedure is mandatory, people have to do it, because it is a rule or a law e.g. the mandatory retirement age of 65. Attendance is mandatory.

Mandatory is used to describe something that must be done, usually because the law states that it is necessary. For example: He demanded mandatory reporting on environmental issues.

Mandatory is authoritatively ordered. It is obligatory. It is compulsory. Thus it may be the outcome of the single issue or all together. For example: It is mandatory that all students take two years of math.

Mandatory is pertaining to, of the nature of, or containing a command. As per law it is permitting no option. It is not to be disregarded or modified e.g. a mandatory clause.

If a crime carries a mandatory punishment, that punishment is fixed by law for all cases, in contrast to crimes for which the judge or magistrate has to decide the punishment for each particular case e.g. the mandatory life sentence for murder; the four-year ban which is mandatory.

Mandatory is having the nature or powers of a mandate. It is a person or state holding a mandate. It is, of a state, having received a mandate over some territory. It is a country assigned to administer a mandate.

Mandatory is often used in opposition to optional. Mandatory means must. Optional implies choice. There is no compulsion. There is no obligation. Choice depends on the sweet will of the concerned person. Here the person has no liability or pressure to please someone. Here a person opts if he likes. He opts not if he likes not.

Mandatory means binding by law. Compulsory means essential. Essential is necessary but not sufficient. Obligation is a moral binding. If someone violates mandatory then he must be punished. In case of ignoring compulsory and obligation one may softly be asked the cause of non compliance.

Mandatory for somebody to do something is an idiom. For example: They would make it mandatory for everyone to have health insurance.

Mandatory is omnipresent. Man faces mandatory. He has to face mandatory. He is bound to face mandatory. Thus man, willy-nilly, faces mandatory infinite times from cradle to coffin in its various forms and features having different degrees and dimensions as well. Sometimes mandatory favours him. Sometimes it favours not. A person knows not whether mandatory will be a prize or punishment to him for a particular period of time for a particular thing in question.

What is mandatory to someone is beneficial to the other. Payment of tax is mandatory to a person who is an earner. This tax is used for the payment of the salary of the employee. If the tax payer does not pay then the employee will starve. Similarly, development works of the nation will be stopped. As such it is mandatory for every citizen to submit income tax return in time.

If any organization does not obey rule then the government must impose mandatory restriction on its activity. As per rule every company must submit minutes of Annual General Meeting (AGM) to the competent authority. Disclosing of identity thereby showing of relevant document is a must and mandatory before availing any flight. In any secret investigation disclosing of identity of the investigator is strictly prohibited for the sake of finding the truth.

Validation of any research model is mandatory before application. Wearing of helmet is mandatory for a motorcyclist. Any new drug or vaccine must pass through mandatory tests before its wide use. The court makes mandatory order binding upon both the parties. In the highway there are few mandatory stops for the passengers. In democracy one-third women participation is mandatory. Safety of workers is mandatory in any construction site.

Man moves on foot. Soldier moves on food. As such sufficient food is mandatory to keep good health for the soldiers thereby remain active round the clock. In contrast hero/heroine takes little food as mandatory diet thus to maintain glamour. Sometimes they even starve in the name dieting or so-called balanced diet. In the glamour world calorie burn is not possible for lacking in physical activity.

Authority enjoys mandatory power. Employee has to obey mandatory duty. If an employee disobeys or declines to obey the rule then he is punished. The degree of punishment depends on the degree of severity of disagreement.

Someone obeys mandatory rule. Someone obeys not at all. Both are personality traits. Again someone obeys sometimes. Sometimes he obeys not. He obeys if he likes. He obeys not if he likes not. Thus his mood and motive are gloriously so uncertain. Such a moody person is worst more than a hardcore disobedient person. The hardcore person will obey never. It is cent percent confirmed. As such he is not considered in any program. In case of moody the chance is fifty-fifty. The paradox is that when his help is urgently required he declines to do and he is willing when the crisis period is over or work has already been done or help is no longer required at that particular point of time. Here uncertainty renders the situation more critical.

Primary education is mandatory to build the human resource as an asset. The rich country is rich of/by/for its enlightened people. Every good nation spends money for the development of its human resource. A good nation achieves greatness through this precious asset. In contrast illiterate people are the liability to any nation rich or poor. Even a poor country with its educated and intelligent population can conquer poverty thereby rein the world in course of time.

Mandatory is just like commander whom a soldier is bound to obey. Thus mandatory enjoys supreme power just like a fascist. As such a criminal is afraid of mandatory punishment.

Mathematics is mandatory for pursuing higher studies with science. In higher level there is no basic difference between physics and mathematics. This is more or less true in case of any branch of science. As such without the background of mathematics a student cannot move forward with research works in science and technology.

In some examinations there are mandatory questions. The merit of a student is gauged from the answers of those difficult questions. A bad and inattentive student cannot attempt those questions thereby fail successfully.

Mandatory acts as brake. It teaches discipline. It saves a person from utter and untimely breakage. It is alias and akin to obligation.

Mandatory gives birth to obligation. Simultaneously, obligation gives birth to mandatory. If someone takes something then he becomes captive in the clutch of obligation. So a judicious person seldom accepts any favour from third party if he cannot repay or return or reciprocate in time. He is much cautious in this regard. In fact help from a critical person renders life more critical. As such an intelligent person refrains himself from taking any help from a sly person. He even bears the loss than to gain from the help from a notorious person.

Acceptance of any favour directly obliges a person instant. Someone repays instant to be free instant. He is ready to pay principle seldom interest. He is not ready to carry the load of interest. He knows better that sometimes interest becomes greater than the principle itself. Someone repays later on with interest, if applicable. Someone neither repays nor does he confess the acceptance of the thing. Everybody avoids such a cheater. Again someone helps without any expectation. He is a Good Samaritan who considers helping someone in distress as mandatory. That's why he is good. Here lies his greatness.

Some people seldom accept or give. This motive does not work always since man is a social being. Danger appears without any notice. Man cannot avoid it. He is bound to face danger. As such he is both bound to accept help and help others in distress.

If someone saves someone from danger then it cannot be repaid. One can repay the loan taken from financial institution. But a dead person cannot get back the lost life. If an orphan is nurtured then the grown up man cannot repay it. Crisis, time and particular moment of past are so precious that no value of future can compensate that value of past.

CONCLUSION

In some societies parents look after their children till they are established. Old parents of such a society are cared by their grown up issues. It is not mandatory. It is the mandatory culture of that society. It is its age-old tradition. It is based on moral values. A person, of that society, is ill famed if he does not look after his old parents. A loyal son serves just to repay the debt towards their parents without whose persistent care and affection a child can never prosper in life. The tradition is that parents look after their children and children look after their parents. It is the essence of security and peace as well. It is moral mandatory rather than legal mandatory. Here lies the uniqueness of mandatory rather than unique mandatory.

REFERENCES

No reference, since the present article is an outcome of Creative Writing